Founder of the University: His Majesty King Rama V

His Majesty King Chulalongkorn (King Rama V) was born on 20th September 1853 into the royal family of King Mongkut (Rama IV) and Somdej Phrathep Sirindhra-boromarajini (Phra-ongchao Rampuepamarapirom). His original name was Somdej Phrachaolukyather Chaofa Chulalongkorn. He was the favorite son of King Rama IV and always joined both long and short trips away with King Rama IV. Once he grew up he was responsible for all assigned missions throughout his Kingdom.

He was first educated by Kromluang Worasethasuda, who was highly qualified in general knowledge and royal customs and traditions. He studied everything required for a crown prince i.e. Pali Language taught by Phra Pariyattidhammadhada (Pium) from the Scholar Society. He learnt shooting sports from Phraya Apaisomplerng (Sri), wrestling and artistry from Luang Pholyothanuyok (Rung), horse riding from Momchao Singhanart and elephant riding from Krompraya Bamrabporapak. However, King Rama IV gave him personal training in administration, classical Thai traditions and archaeology.

In 1861, King Rama IV bestowed on him the higher title of ‘Somdej Phrachaolukyather Chaofa Chulalongkorn’. He was then taught English by a native English speaking teacher, Mrs. Anna Leonowens, until he ordained as a novice monk.

In 1866, after having disrobed, he was taught by Dr. Chandalay, an American missionary. Meanwhile, he was also trained in general affairs - every night and day - in matters of emergency, so that he could gain hands-on experience in real life issues. For example, he listened to King Rama IV’s discussion with Senior Ministers such as Somdej Chaopraya Borommahasurisuriyawong. Thus he learned about good government from childhood. In 1851, King Rama III died and the status of Chaofa Chulalongkorn was raised to that of Crown Prince. This prompted him to prepare for the role of future king. He then was given an even higher title, ‘Kromkhunphinitprachanart’ and took control of the Departments of the Royal Guard’s, Palace Security and the Treasury.
In 1868, after the demise of King Rama IV, all senior ministers and royal noblemen agreed that Chaofaa Chulalongkorn should ascend the Throne. He was granted the throne on 1st October 1868 with the title of ‘King Rama V’ of the Chakri Dynasty. But it wasn’t until the 11th November 1868 that King Rama V officially ascended the Throne. As he was only 15 years old, he reigned under the guidance of the Regent, Somdej Chaophraya Borommahasrisuriyawong, the foremost nobleman. He regularly presided over royal ceremonies and events and also chaired administrative meetings to learn further state matters from the Regent. His skillful management, appropriate execution, consistency and positive attitude brought him great acceptance, high cooperation, and wholehearted gratitude throughout the 42 years of his reign.

In 1873, at the age of 20, he was ordained as a monk for 15 days. Thus His Majesty King Rama V was the first king of the Rattanakosin Period to become a monk.

On the 12th November 1873 he was officially crowned as King Chulalongkorn and immediately abolished the act of prostration during the ceremony, as he saw that it was no longer practical because of the changing nature of Thai society. King Rama V also conferred on Chaophraya Borommaha Srisuriyawong the higher title of ‘Somdej Chaophraya Borommaha srisuriyawong’.

His Majesty reigned the country for 42 years and became the longest reigning monarch. He passed away on 23rd October 1910 at the age of 58.

It is well worth mentioning that he succeeded peacefully to abolish slavery in 1905. His Majesty King Rama V initiated enormous reforms in state law, civil organization, education and religion.

Promotion of Buddhism

He had strong faith in Buddhism and supported education for monks. He saw this as necessary for security, prosperity and peace in Siam: he issued the following statement During my reign I intend to consistently support Buddhism and monks. I want to make some commitments that, as long as I live, I will always support Buddhism.

In 1873 he became a monk and he held higher ordination ceremonies every year to show his strong faith in Buddhism.

In 1898 he had the Tipitaka revised and printed 1000 copies using the Thai alphabet. This was the first printing of the Tipitaka in Thai and is called ‘The Printed Tipitaka Edition’. He sponsored this printing costing 1000 chang (old currency) and had the copies distributed to local Buddhist temples and abroad.

Later in 1902, His Majesty King Rama V issued the Sangha Administration Act of B.E. 2445 (1902) to systemize Sangha administration across the country. According to the Act, the Sangha Supreme Council was granted authority to settle all disputes and conflicts, and was divided into hierarchical levels: Regional, provincial, district and subdistricts respectively. Besides, the Sangha Administration Act shows the King’s vision of equal opportunity for all in education; both laymen and monks. The Act states that abbots and higher-ranking monks are responsible for supporting education. This also synchronized with the announcement of formal education for children up-country in 1898. It required that education be started at various temples and monks were to be in charge of teaching. School textbooks were also printed on Dhamma and other subjects.
“This site will be developed for the Mahanikaya sect monks and the name Mahachulalongkornrajavidyalaya will be given.”

Sayamin.

On September 22, 1896.

Mahachulalongkornrajavidyalaya regulation 1847 was in use.
On July 18, 1947, Mahachulalongkornrajavidyalaya opened a primary school and, two years later, a secondary school. This was followed, in 1950, by the establishment of a faculty of Buddhist Studies at the undergraduate level.

On May 16, 1969, Mahachulalongkornrajavidyalaya under royal patronage was officially recognized by the Supreme Sangha Council as an educational institution for the Thai Sangha, located at Wat Mahathat.

On September 21, 1997, the National Assembly of Thailand enacted a royal Act of Mahachulalongkornrajavidyalaya University to the effect that the University should become a legal entity under the supervision of the state.

On July 9, 1999, the Mahachulalongkornrajavidyalaya University executive committee had an audience with His Royal Highness Crown Prince Maha Vajiralongkorn of Thailand. His Royal Highness granted to the University the title deeds to approximately thirty-three acres at Lam Sai sub-district, Wang Noi district, Ayutthaya province, that had been donated by Dr. Ratsami and Khun Ying Sompong Wannisson.
On December 13, 1999, His Royal Highness Crown Prince Maha Vajiralongkorn laid the foundation-stone of the new University main campus at Lam Sai sub-district, Wang Noi district, Ayutthaya province and, during the following year, the construction of the new main campus was initiated by the Rector, Phra Dharmakosajarn (Prayoon Dhammacitto) and the executive committee of the University. At present, due to acquisition of further land, the site consists of some one hundred and twenty-nine acres.

On February 23, 2001, Mahachulalongkornrajavidyalaya University formed affiliation with several institutes, starting the Buddhist Dongguk Chonbob College in South Korea. At present, there are six overseas Affiliated Institutes of the University.
On October 1, 2008, the University relocated from Wat Mahathat and Wat Si Sudaram to the new main campus at Lam Sai sub-district, Wang Noi district, Ayutthaya province.
On December 3, 2010, opening ceremony of the University main campus is presided over by His Royal Highness Crown Prince Maha Vajiralongkorn, at Lam Sai sub-district, Wang Noi district, Ayutthaya province.
